Re: REVIEW for an educational and professional program "Air transportation management" Undergraduate (bachelor) level of higher education specialty 275 "Air Transport Technologies" fields of knowledge 27 "Transport"

To whom it may concern,

The educational and professional program "Air transportation management" of the undergraduate level of higher education, submitted for review, was developed by the staff of the the Air Transportation Management Department of the National Aviation University after consultations with scientists, potential employers, who confirmed the need for training specialists.

This educational and professional undergraduate program "Air transportation management" provides for the acquisition of competencies sufficient for the formulation, research, analysis of scientific, technological, technical, economic and financial problems in air transport, which can be related as with commercial practice as well as with transport operations. The difference of the program from others lies in the development of practical skills among students and specialists of aviation enterprises.

The program takes into account the wishes of aviation industry, potential employers, who have confirmed the existing need in Ukraine for the training of specialists in specialty 275 "Air Transport Technologies".

We believe that the educational and professional program meets the training of a specialist with an educational qualification of a Bachelor in Air Transport Technologies and contributes to ensuring that the learning outcomes meet the needs of potential employers.
